MAYFAIR GOES SHOPPING

East and West meet in this collection of Canadian handcraft. White sails against a blue sky and a bluer ocean is the motif of a hooked rug made by a fisherman's daughter in Nova Scotia. The hideous features of the totem pole suggest their Siwash Indian origin, as do these pieces of pottery also from British Columbia. The hand-carved figure and the farmhouse cigarette box are both quaint. From the Canadian Handicrafts Guild

Porcelain parrots in gorgeous greens and yellows with snapping black eyes and a strutting fan-tail pigeon, whose plumage is in brilliant blue shades with touches of sombre brown on his breast, make intriguing ornaments. From William Junor

The modernistic note is predominant in this dinner set with its geometric scrolls and triangles in apple green and black. From the T. Eaton Company
