

W. L. Somerville, Architect.

The House with the Delicate Air

IT ISN'T a whim of chance — a matter of accident. The atmosphere of a house is as carefully planned for and built up as the foundation walls or the joist supports. Through sound architecture, the selection of the best of modern equipment, and the close attention to fine detail, the house becomes more than a shelter — it blooms full-blown into a distinguished, gracious home.

If you want to see what Canada can do in the way of domestic architecture, if you desire a guide to the best types of houses suited to Canada's various climates, if you are going to build and want to know how to go about it, you will find hundreds of pictures and many articles by experts, all selected to fill these needs, in
