WHEN the "baby" is a mere baby, protection, waking and sleeping, is what he needs — protection against tumbles, against flies, and so on—just the kind of protection that the supplies. Then, during quite a while, as the "baby" grows to be a "child," and gets more and more active, Kiddie-Koop becomes even more valuable, by providing properly-restrained freedom all the time. Can you wonder that mothers and children "boost" for it so continuously?

ured for two generations by our grandmothers to remind them of the visit of the Prince of Wales' illustrious grandfather, the late King Edward. We have seen cups from which he partook food and the enormous hand-carved native walnut buffet which was presented to him by one of Canada's oldest cities and which mysteriously reposes on this side of the water! But how much more unique is the dance programmes which these four Calgary debutantes treasure with the simple inscription Edward P.

Mrs. Nolen Hussey, who was formerly Miss Dorothy Loughheed, danced with both the Royal guests; with her mother, Lady Loughheed, she was a guest of the Prince of Wales at his ranch for luncheon.

In the middle of their five days at the ranch, H. R. H. the Prince of Wales and Prince George made a flying visit to Edmonton, where they were entertained formally at Government House by Lieut.-Governor Egbert and Mrs. Egbert. Twenty-five couples were invited to the dance which His Honor gave in their honor and two of Alberta's loveliest girls claimed more than half of the royal visitors' dances. They were Miss Doris MacCarter, who on the Prince's previous visits, was one of his favourite dancing partners, and Miss Leila Osborne, who was the much honored partner of Prince George both in Edmonton and in Calgary.

George S. Lyon, eight times Senior Golf Champion of Canada, who was unable to defend his title this year owing to illness. His crown therefore transfers to F. R. Martin of Hamilton, one-time amateur golf champion of Canada
