

In fact they capture my whole.

Just for the moment.

Just for the moment

My heart is aflame

And my eyes are seeking the flame.

Just for the moment

I breathe a name

And gaze upon Babylon's flame.

Just for the moment

I cry in the night

And clutch at the sheets of the bed.

Just for the moment

I fall in the flight

And rise with a pain in my head.

When I think of you who meant all to me,

All, my life, my love;

When I think of how you would call to me,

Call to me, from above.

To give me rest, nothing, I realize now

But there calls to me one divine.

That sometimes wonder seek myself has

Devotion could not justify the wine.