

the crisis ^{and} ~~the regular~~ ^{foresee} came and Spain
was threatened - we went to Spain with
the International Brigades. Even
the guys went. If not as fighters, as
ambulance drivers,
nurses. Here is what Norman Bartine wrote
a week before he left for Spain.

It was on an entirely different level. We were idealists: we believed that Society could be changed for the good of all; and a ~~just~~ ^{good} ~~party~~ ^{party} could do us wrong.
In this we were
laboring, because we believed that
human beings were
greater than any one.
And so we died
responsible, dedicated lives and when
