A JAEGER rug is a prized possession that will last you a lifetime. As the oriental rug makers weave the stories of their lives into their wonderful creations, so you may weave the story of many a happy day out of doors into the history of your JAEGER rug.

MAYFAIR carries the news that will bring you in the months to come, the real tidings of Canada—gay life, sports life, and all that goes with the two. Mayfair is the bulletin, the picture-page, the almanac, the vade mecum of Canadians who really live. You can no more follow the panorama of events without it, than take in a Shaw play without a program.

MAYFAIR GOES SHOPPING

The time has come for those who are interested in Canadian sports to think seriously on the subject of better trophies—this apropos of a glorious display of the original silver pieces produced by Georg Jensen. There are broad footed bowls with exquisite grape and leaf motifs, loving cups with ferns and berries, reeds and scrolls, the simple designs favored by this master. The Gift Shop, T. Eaton Co., Limited,

Two pieces of Wedgwood, one old, the other new. They are as different as the poles, yet both typical. The mustard pot in blue with white relief at the left, is representative of the favorite old pattern. The plate is one of the departures of the modern designers at the Wedgwood pottery. Both make charming bridge prizes or wedding gifts. From the Mount Royal Art Galleries, The Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal

With the return to favor of fine white damask, there is a movement to bring back the clear crystal tumblers of our grandfathers' time,—those generous sized solid tokens of a luxurious hospitable age. Here are reproductions of four favorites. See the grace of line and beautiful cuts. Photographs, however fine cannot do justice to their crystal gleam. Ryrie-Birks Limited, Toronto
