

THE TORONTO KENNEL CLUB SHOW

At right: Tom Grimshaw's fine Wire Haired Fox Terrier, Benson Dark Horse, a most promising puppy, winner of the Novice and Canadian Bred classes

Below: The Kennedys' Mitzi Von Thuringen, considered one of the best Doberman Pinschers on this side of the water. Adjudged the best bitch at the show, and best of her breed

Below, at left: The English Bulldog, Sissie, owned by William Chetwyn, of Syracuse, New York, and bred in England. He went through all classes at the Toronto show, finally carrying off the trophy for the best dog or bitch exhibited. He is considered by the judges a model for the English Bulldog. So far as points go, he is virtually a perfect specimen

Below, at centre: Alfred Loveridge's Alsatian, Champion Alpha Von Krone, who, having won his championship, appeared at the show merely for exhibition. Below, at right: General Gordon, Mrs. H. Warrington's prize-winning Pekingese. He carried off firsts in the Novice, Canadian Bred, Limit and Winners classes, as well as the ribbon for Best of Breed
