...and congratulated myself upon this remarkable trip at the best of the season in that area. Though heavy rain had started to turn and the shores and great cliffs were covered in russet and brown and gold. It is a pity more of us do not travel in the autumn; crowds have increased, the weather, if good is of the best, and the bizarre colorings are the most commonplace of country-

Mr. and Mrs. Allerton made the comfortable cruise from Montreal; Kennedy, the managing editor of the Canadian Geographical Journal and Mrs. Crane, descended the St. Lawrence as far as Murray Bay; Mr. Allan Kerr, manager of the C. S. L. Hotel at Tadoussac, and well known as a skater of the Winter Club, made the return journey as far as Quebec after closing the hotel for the season; Miss Truchereau, who was a bridesmaid at Yvette McKenna's wedding, came up from Murray Bay to Quebec. At the Manor, I had a chat with Mr. Evans, the manager, who told me after a short vacation in the south he was coming back to get the resort in shape for the winter season, as skiing and skating are proved pastimes there with Montrealers and Quebecers, and a good holiday and week-end business is looked for this winter.

While with that annoying but necessary foresight of the magazine writer, I am discussing the plans of winter time, people are now actually only returning from their summer vacations. Mr. J. M. R. Fairbairn and his family have returned from Stony Lake, where so many Toronto and Ontario people make their headquarters during the summer; Mr. and Mrs. Alban Bedford Jones and Miss Gwyneth Bedford Jones have returned from the Hermitage Club at Lake Memphremagog; Hon. Mr. Justice Howard and his family are back in the city after spending the summer in that neighborhood; Miss Barbara Ramsay, and a number of other debutantes, are due to return to the city shortly; Miss Gwyneth Lewis and her mother, Mrs. Lansing Lewis, are expected back toward the end of October, following a cruise of the Baltic and some time on the Continent;

Eternal coming and going everybody is coming back now, and within a month or so, a number will be going away, to cruise, to go south, to brouse on the Riviera or skate in Switzerland.

Those who have been away for any time, and certainly those who have been out of touch with things and have not read Mayfair, will find many changes.

Yvette McKenna has become Mrs. Crabbe; Barbara Henderson has become Mrs. Dick Gilmour; Margaret Costigan, Mrs. Babette Lyon, Princess Kossatkine-Rostoffsky, September brings change, not only to the leaves. There are changes of names, of colors, and of materials, and the latest change of the latter variety seems to be in the direction of panne satin

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Price, of Quebec, snapped aboard the Canadian Pacific liner, Empress of Scotland, en route to England. Mrs. Price was formerly Barbara Henderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Henderson, of Montreal which the Canadian Celanese and other manufacturers of fabrics for fashionable wear are stressing for this autumn and winter. I attended the Celanese Opening the other day, when I was shown the new fabrics and new colorings and was given three cups of excellent tea. In panne satin they displayed some fine material in Alabaster, Aquatone, Peach, Azure, Blush Pink and Black. And in lustrous evening dress taffeta there were samples in Sprig Green—a lively shade—Cerise, etcetera... and the tea was good.

It was not long ago that Hunting Pink was the color about Grande Fresniere, for the Montreal Hunt has been responding to the urges of autumn, and the hounds have been following the scents. Among the riders and mounts out the other day were—G. A. Ross, M.F.H., on Warwick; Allan Ross, on Newtonbrook; L. McJ. Spackman, on Diamond; A. T. Paterson, on Pilot; Mrs. A. T. Paterson, on Pilot; A. W. P. Buchanan, on Robin Hood; Ian Kanlake, on Puff Box; Mrs. Kanlake, on Airplane; B. Granville, on Ex-Ray; Miss Sollock, on Mass-of-Gold; Mrs. J. W. Duncan, on Lady Mayo; Dr. J. W. Duncan, on Zarnett; Jean Ethier, on Rob Roy; G. I. Ogilvie, on Whisper; Miss Dorothy Shepherd, on Bearwing; E. R. Decary, on The Irish; Jack Pringle, on Lindy; Miss Helen Ogilvie, on Pilot; Ian Ogilvie, on Lancer; Hugh Ogilvie, on Melody; W. Woodward, on Peter, and F. Taylor, on Paymaster.

Afterwards, the opening hunt breakfast was held, attended by nearly everyone whom you would expect to attend such an interesting occasion. There were Sir Montagu Allan, Miss Joan Archibald, Mr. Norman J. Dawes, Miss Audrey Shearer, Mr. Hugh Paton, Miss M. Rawlings, Mr. Ward C. Pitfield and company.
