

But fate is not kind like it,
These dreams of life have come apart.
Oh, to put into message —
To get in and then — it was forgot!

Cure for Spiritual Fickleness.

If ever you have time to pass
The cost of luxuries of speech
Reading and keep your mind alert
For lost, gone, The bird is lost.

Extract.

A wind blew over the hill,
It struck the new green grass;
The sun does not shine by clouds
For I said no shadow Pass.
It was cold and bleak and gray,
Till it filled me with delight,
For the ecstasy of being alone
Made the earth and me unite.
I sat on the ground and I saw the red sky
Filled my lungs with the soft, clear air.
Why was I happy? I don't know where
